🏢 Research

Virtual Hands-on Exercises for The Preparation of Dental Class II Cavities	2022.10 – present
Second in charge of scientific research projects Innovation and Entrepreneurship Training Programme for University Students
Project Profile : This project aims to develop and design a virtual platform for the preparation of Class II cavities. The main body of the platform includes the construction of theoretical knowledge and the construction of a virtual simulation platform. The virtual simulation platform is based on artificial intelligence technology, combined with network communication, sensor interaction, and other technologies for high-precision human-computer interaction, to achieve the function of simulation operation training in the virtual oral environment, providing a safe, simulation operation training platform for dental students.
